Girl Scouts learn self-defense

Contributed photo

Girl Scouts from Gilmer and Pickens counties recently attended a self-defense course at Dan Haymore's United Karate Studio in Blue Ridge. Haymore, a fifth-degree black belt, taught how to ward off an attacker in many different situations. Empowerment is a huge benefit in self-defense, and everyone in the class was able to work on that. The Girl Scouts would like to thank Haymore for offering this class. Although they hope they never have to use what they practiced during the class, the girls are glad to be prepared with these lifesaving skills.

Bleaching

Not all teeth are acceptable as candidates for bleaching. It is important to listen to your dentist's advice. Experience tells your dentist which teeth will be successful or not. Teeth that are vital or those that have or need root canal therapy can both be treated.

The steps of a vital bleach include isolating the tooth, cleaning the tooth thoroughly, air drying the tooth, and finally placing a special solution on the tooth using moderate heat. Many dentists repeat the process two or more times. Results can vary, but even an excellent result may not remain successful for more than a few years.

An alternative to vital bleaching is nonvital bleaching. The steps involved are basically the same. The exception is that the tooth is bleached from both the inside and the outside. Studies and experience have shown that this is a more predictable and successful procedure because the bleaching process penetrates more thoroughly and is not limited to the tooth's enamel.
